Background	National Butterfly Awareness Month is celebrated to highlight the ecological role of butterflies and their importance in biodiversity conservation. On this occasion, the Department of Zoology organized a series of activities — a Guest Lecture, Poster Presentation, and Butterfly Walk — to educate students and create awareness about butterfly diversity and conservation. Department of Zoology organized a guest lecture to educate students and nature enthusiasts about butterfly diversity and the need for conservation in India.
Objective	• To create awareness among students about butterfly diversity and their ecological significance. • To understand threats faced by butterfly populations due to habitat loss, pesticide use, and urbanization. • To encourage students to participate in local-level conservation through butterfly gardens and field activities.
Conclusion	Total 118 students were participated in the present event. The program created awareness among students, faculty, and participants about butterfly conservation. It successfully motivated students to take up practical initiatives like butterfly gardens at the local level. The event not only enhanced academic understanding but also instilled a sense of responsibility towards biodiversity conservation.
