Report of the Guest Lecture on the occasion of Geography Day.

On January 15, 2025, the Department of Geography at Padmabhushan Vasantrodada Patil Mahavidyalaya celebrated Geography Day with great enthusiasm. The event featured a guest lecture by Mr. D. M. Godase, Assistant Professor in the Department of Geography. Mr. Godase spoke about the significance and history of Geography Day, highlighting its importance in understanding our world. He also elaborated on the relevance of Makar Sankranti and the astronomical events of the summer and winter solstices. His talk included insights into Uttarayan and Dakshinayan, explaining their geographical and cultural significance.

Dr. N. S. Pol, another distinguished speaker, discussed the spiritual and scientific importance of Makar Sankranti. He emphasized the benefits of studying geography in comprehending the interplay between natural phenomena and human life. His insights enriched the audience's understanding of how geography impacts various aspects of our lives, including cultural traditions and scientific advancements.

The event was presided over by the Head of the Department, Dr. D. A. Gade, who served as the chairperson. Mr. M. S. Satpute skilfully anchored the event, ensuring its smooth flow. Mrs. S. G. Mane was also present, adding to the event's significance. The audience comprised students from the first, second, and third years of the geography department, along with some students from the commerce faculty, making the celebration a successful interdisciplinary gathering.
