Report of the Women’s Health and Hygiene Event.

The National Cadet Corps (NCC) unit SW cadets from Padmabhushan Vasantodada Patil Mahavidyalaya, Kavathe Mahankal, organized a successful extension activity focused on Village Health and Hygiene in Kuchi village on the occasion of Savitribai Phule’s Birth Anniversary. The event aimed to raise awareness and educate the local community about essential health and hygiene practices. It witnessed active participation from the local women, making the event both informative and impactful.

During the event, Cadet Vrushali Khot provided an insightful briefing on the importance of women's health and hygiene. Her presentation highlighted various aspects of maintaining personal health, emphasizing the need for regular health check-ups, proper nutrition, and the significance of menstrual hygiene. This session was well-received by the attendees, who found the information valuable and relevant to their daily lives.

Cadet Riya Waydande discussed critical sanitation issues, focusing on the importance of clean surroundings and proper waste management to prevent diseases. She shared practical tips on maintaining sanitation in the village and the benefits of having a clean environment. Additionally, Cadets Sanjna Patole, Sonali Padalkar, Varsha Kadam, and Sanjana Hipparkar actively participated in various activities, engaging with the local women and helping to make the event a success. Their collective efforts, along with the enthusiastic involvement of the village women, ensured that the event achieved its objectives of promoting health and hygiene in Kuchi village.
